

Alebrijes

They are cardboard figures that combine imaginary forms and mythological animals with some components of reality. These freakish and almost surreal creations were the result of a long artistic meditation, in addition to the ingenious practice of cardboard handicraft.

Pedro Linares was an informal cardboard artist, a crafter of skulls and piñatas. When he was 30 years old, as he was dying, he hallucinated a strange place where unusual, bizarre and psychedelic animals shouted one word: "Alebrijes". After a miraculous recovery of a stomach ulcer that had brought him close to death the artisan decided to replicate his dream and show it to the world. With wire, cardboard and paint, he gave life to these fantastic creatures, from his own mythology. Diego Rivera, his most famous client, used to visit Pedro Linares' workshop, in the Merced Balbuena.

In the creation of an alebrije various animals are mixed, to form a unique composition. Paper mache, colored tissue paper and newsprint are joined with glue and are shaped on a wire frame, to make the strange figures. Once it's dry, it's decorated with acrylic paints of bright colors that highlight its forms and give it life. The attention to detail and the time of the creative process during the making of an alebrije deserve to be highlighted. The development of a figure of 20 centimeters, from start to finish, can take 3 weeks.

An authentic alebrije has to stand on its own and must be completely made with paper. Furthermore, in a quality work, the alebrijes may give the impression of being made of glass. Although the alebrije is a registered trademark, there is no signature or characteristic feature for differentiating the work done by Linares' family inheritors from the work done by any other person.

Huasteca Potosina

Imagine yourself walking in a surreal garden, discovering the castle of the famous “Brujo de Axtla”; watching thousands of exotic fantastically colored birds flying back to “Sótano de las Huahuas”; being one of the fortunate to appreciate one of the most beautiful waterfalls of México, “El Tamul” throwing down its waters from the height of 320ft (105 meters); or swimming in the paradise cenote “Puente de Dios” (The Bridge of God), a cavern-like formation where sunrays filter through a crack, creating an amazing lighting effect. Discover “Huasteca Potosina” a wonderful place flanked by the North of Veracruz, South of Tamaulipas, Sierra Gorda, San Luis Potosí and Hidalgo.

Huasteca Potosina has a rich jungle ecosystem and an exceptional natural beauty with rivers, chasms and waterfalls. Even if we tried, it would be virtually impossible to describe in words its beauty, it is something for the sight to behold! 2-day tour from $4,040MXN per person. It includes Round-trip transfers from Mexico City, certified guide, meals, boat trip to “El Tamul” waterfall, “Sótano de las Golondrinas”, insurance, and all necessary to freshen up and go for a swim in the cenote “Puente de Dios”.
